Died In Our Country's Service

Four per cent. of the Warren county boys who joined the service to defend mankind's rights did not return home. They fell in action, died of wounds or were gathered by the Grim Reaper in camp, on the ocean, in France, and even in far-off Siberia, through disease. They number sixty-six and there were 1,600 men, four per cent. of the county's population, in the service during the war.

Of the sixty-six who died, thirty-seven were killed on the field of battle or so seriously wounded that they died, ten of them being of Company I, 112th Regiment; two were lost at sea; two were killed by accident, and the remainder of twenty-five died of sickness, seventeen being carried off by the great influenza epidemic which raged through the camps and cities of the United States in 1918.

Only sixty pictures of those who died could be secured for this history; some were unavailable, while others are contained further back. All of these men have been officially reported dead by the government.

1. Stanley H. Smith, Sugar Grove, lost at sea, September 13, 1917. Enlisted from University of Kentucky at first call for volunteers, April 12, 1917. Assigned to U. S. S. Wilkes. Lost at sea on duty in foreign waters.
2. Henry H. Cumings, 3rd, Tidioute. Lost when transport Antilles was torpedoed October 17, 1917. He sailed for France March 26, 1917, as a volunteer for the American Ambulance Field Service in France and was on his way home after his enlistment expired when the transport went down.
3. Charles F. White, Sheffield, private, Co. A, 49th Infantry, accidentally killed in United States, October 17, 1917.
4. Oliver Summerton, Tidioute, Co. I, 112th Regt. Died of typhoid fever December 29, 1917, at Camp Hancock, Georgia.
5. Starling Rowland, Warren, Co. I, 112th Regt. Killed in action in France, July 5, 1918.
6. Raymond Vesling, Stoneham, Co. I, 112th Regt. Killed in action in France July 15, 1918.
7. Louie J. Siefert, Warren, left with draft of April 29, 1918. Member of Co. 4, 113th Machine Gunners. Killed August 6, 1918, by shell fire while bringing up provisions for comrades after he had volunteered for the task.
8. Percy Lawson, Warren, Co. I, 112th Regt. Died in France August 7, 1918, of wounds received in action.
9. Stanley L. Wagner, Sheffield, private, Co. H, 112th Inf. Killed in action August 8, 1918.
10. Frederick L. Howard, Sugar Grove, Aviation. Killed in action in France August 8, 1918.
11. Robert Dewey Shaw, Tidioute, Co. A, 112th Regt. Killed in action August 12, 1918.
12. Frank M. Glendenning, Second Lieut., Co. B, 111th Infantry. Former principal of schools at Sheffield. Killed in action in France August 12, 1918, while leading his men toward German machine gun nest.
13. Robert Bruce Kil'urn, Corydon, left June 1, 1918, in draft from Oil City. Member of Medical Corps at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Died of pneumonia on way to France August 12, 1918.
14. Chester Theodore Sampson, Scandia, American Expeditionary Forces. Killed in action August 17, 1918.
15. Alfred Thorpe Morison, Sugar Grove, entered service September 15, 1918. In training for commission at Army 18th Observation Battery, Field Artillery Corps, when he died of pneumonia at base hospital, Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., October 5, 1918.
16. Garnett M. Noyes, Warren, captain of draft which left here July 26, 1918. Died of pneumonia at Camp Lee, September 24, 1918.
17. Charles F. Swanson, Chandlers Valley, left with draft of February 25, 1918. He was killed in action in France September 25, 1918.
18. Henry W. Hallgren, Youngsville, Sergeant, Co. D, 314th Engineers, wounded September 26, 1918, by shell and died September 27, 1918, in France.

Ernest Watt

Ernest Watt, Co. I, 112th Regt., was reported killed in action in July, 1918. Later he was carried on the official casualty list as a German prisoner. Frank Auchiotto, who returned to this country in November, 1918, said he climbed out over Watt's body July 6, after their platoon had stormed enemy machine gun nests. Watt was later heard from as a prisoner at Camp Rastatt, Germany. So far as known, he is the only Warren man who was taken prisoner during the war.

Company I, 112th Regiment

Company I served during the war as a part of the 28th Division, which justly earned for itself the name of the Iron Division and which saw as hard service, probably, as any division of the United States armies on the western front, not excepting the Marines.

Company I was under the call of President Wilson July 3, 1917, and was mustered into federal service at the State Armory in Warren July 15. In September it assembled with the other companies of the regiment at Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga.

On October 11, 1917, an order was issued reorganizing the 28th Division, of which the 112th was to be a part. The Oil Country Regiment was the nucleus of the new 112th Regiment. Not until the following March were overseas orders received. The usual period of training in France followed and early in July Company I was sent into the front line.

The 112th Regiment went through the battles of Chateau Thierry, Fismes and Fismette, Argonne Forest, and the Woevre. At Chateau Thierry the Pennsylvanians shared equally with the Marines in credit for saving Paris.

Forty-five out of every 100 men in the regiment were either killed, wounded, gassed or reported missing on the Woevre, 33 men being killed and 1,731 wounded in that battle.

The 112th was in the thickest of the fighting at all four places mentioned, and in the Argonne they held the center of the line with every available man in the front. They went through machine gun infested woods and underbrush from four to eight feet high without being halted, notwithstanding the heavy casualties.

As the old 16th always gave a good account of itself in the Spanish-American war and on the Mexican border, so did the boys of northwestern Pennsylvania, as the 112th, in their service for our country overseas. Company I made glorious history for itself on the western front in 1918.

Unusual honors were given by General Pershing to the 28th Division, of which the 112th and Campony I was a part. Every man in the division is entitled to wear a red keystone on the left sleeve, extending downward from the shoulder seam. This device, associated with Pennsylvania, was awarded for the "Iron Division's" remarkable record under fire, the division also being dubbed "The Red Fighting Division."

Beside this unique divisional honor, two regiments of the 28th Division were awarded the Fourragere, a braided cord to be worn looped over the left shoulder. It is, in effect, a blanket decoration for bravery conferred on every man in the regiment. The commands which won this honor were the 109th and the 112th, so that members of Company I enjoy this unusual distinction. The men of Company I will be the last from Warren to return home, as the 28th Division has been delegated as part of the army of occupation of Germany.

Several well-known Warren men have captained Company I since its organization on October 1, 1878, but none of them with more credit than Captain William Tribble, of North Warren. He joined the service at the time of the Homestead strike, when Captain Fred Windsor was in command, and worked his way up steadily. When Captain C. E. Bordwell was made a Major in 1917, there was general satisfaction when First Lieutenant Tribble filled the place. Unfortunately, Captain Tribble resigned at Camp Hancock when he failed to pass the physical examination for overseas. After his return to Warren he endeavored, when and wherever possible, to be of aid to the cause and rendered valuable service, particularly in the drilling of the men who went to the cantonments, in connection with the training scheme evolved and carried out by the Y. M. C. A.

Company I made history before this war. It served with honor in the Spanish-American War, participating in the battle of Coamo under Captain D. F. A. Wheelock, also assisting in the capture of Ponce. In 1916 it was called to the Mexican border under Captain Bordwell, spending seven months along the Rio Grande.

The picture of Company I on the next page, with the men on it numbered and identified so far as possible by Captain Tribble, was taken just before the command left Warren for Camp Hancock.

Selective Service Record

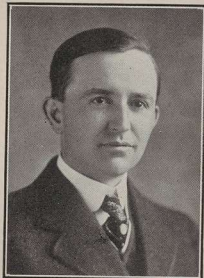

Warren county's Draft Board was first organized in the summer of 1917, with Sheriff George A. W. DeForest as its chairman, A. C. Mook, County Commissioner, as clerk, and Dr. C. W. Schmehl as the medical member. Sheriff DeForest found it necessary to resign after a few weeks because of his health and his other duties, and Elmer M. Hodges, of North Warren, was selected to fill the place of chairman, which he did with much credit.

The task of the board was immense, and at the time this history was published was not completed, although it was believed all the men that would ever leave this county in the draft had been sent. Up to November 15, 1918, the board had inducted into the service nearly 900 men.

The total number of its registrants was 7,822 and each of these had to be classified in first, second, third, fourth or fifth class, with the several subdivisions of each. Approximately 2,000 were given physical examinations, the board being assisted in this work by Dr. LeRoy Chapman, Dr. W. M. Baker, Dr. E. S. Africa, Dr. Floyd Schuler, Dr. M. J. Cowden and others.

Early in the year 1918 Miss Della Morse was employed as chief clerk and later Miss Florence Stevens. As the work grew more strenuous a limited service man in the person of Nicholas Anderson was added to the staff and in the latter part of 1918 Robert D. Adams, who had proved a faithful volunteer worker, was also employed.

Mr. John Siggins, attorney, served as the government appeal agent for the board and rendered valuable service in that connection. So far as known, Mr. Siggins, although connected with the selective service actively from beginning to end, was the only man who did not receive compensation for his work. He assisted the board not only in his capacity as federal appeal agent, but in threshing out the legal problems presented from time to time.

John Siggins

Other volunteer work was done, and the board was ably assisted in the great task connected with filling out of the questionnaires by the Warren County Bar Association, Mr. J. H. Alexander heading the legal advisory committee.

At the time of the departure of the various contingents the farewell committee, appointed by the Chamber of Commerce—William V. Geer, Frank J. Haggerty and Earl V. MacDonald—had charge. The Red Cross supplied the departing men with knitted outfits and comfort kits. Mrs. Blanche Partridge headed the committee which regularly, with the assistance at times of the Chamber of Commerce, the Elks and private citizens, furnished the boys with cigars and cigarettes.

The Warren Band did splendid work, as well, in escorting the contingents to the railroad station, Grand Army Veterans invariably taking part, also.

Absolute impartiality was always the motto of the three members of the local board and they lived up to it in all their dealings with the men liable for Uncle Sam's service, and with their families. Their task was enormous and it took faithful men, as they proved themselves to be.

Warren County Boys Cited for Bravery

1. Ralph Summerton, Tidioute, sergeant, Co. I, 112th Regiment, was suffering with wounds the night before the attack on Chatel Chehery. The battalion adjutant told him there were no officers left. Against the doctor's advice Summerton led Company I in the attack. He was the first man to mount Hill 244. General Nolan saw him carry on. It was for this particular bit of bravery Summerton was cited.

2. Captain George E. McGinnis, Clarendon, headed the 110th Ambulance Company. On the night of August 9, 1918, he made a reconnaissance under fire and located a line of ambulance evacuation for Fismett. The next morning he repaired a bridge under fire and was cited for the heroism twice shown.

3. Frank Bauer, Warren, _____ Ambulance Corps, awarded the French War Cross for distinguished conduct under fire when he rescued a comrade in a barrage.

4. Ralph Brasington, Warren, Unit 593, Convois Automobile, awarded the French War Cross for notable conduct in assisting to extinguish flames in a French hospital while it was being bombed by German aviators.

5. Harold Boynton, Warren, Unit 593, Convois Automobile, worked with Brasington in extinguishing the same fire and was awarded the French War Cross for the same reasons.

First Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren September 7, 1917

Hailed as "five per cent." of Warren county's quota, and several of them volunteers eager for the great adventure, the first contingent of men from this county numbered but ten men. They left Warren September 7, 1917, on a memorable day in the county's history.

Company I was to leave for Camp Hancock the next day. As the boys marched to the station—and they did march—that first contingent, they arrived at General Warren Park just at the conclusion of the ceremonies incident to the presentation of the General Warren monument by the Tidioute Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Company I was drawn up in line at the Park as the boys, the Warren Band and the Grand Army Veterans passed. Burgess B. G. Gregory had just completed his speech of acceptance of the monument for the city, following the presentation by Mrs. L. L. Hunter, of Tidioute, for the Chapter.

The crowd at the station, although there was but a handful of the men, rivaled that which was to see Company I depart on the following day. The first tears were shed, the first cheers of farewell rang out, and the boys who were to be the first of this county on Europe's bloody fields left for the front.

The custom of having the aged Civil War veterans accompany the men to the station as an escort of honor was established on that day and followed afterward. The plucky ten of September 7, 1917, were:

Ahlgren, John M., Warren
Anderson, Seigfried J., Warren
Hanna, Leslie, Warren
Kinnear, Benjamin, Warren
Liberty, Fred, Pleasant

Liberty, William J., Pleasant

Second Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren September 19, 1917

The departure of the second draft contingent, on September 19, 1917, was sadder than that of the first. The glory in men off to defend their country's rights had not yet penetrated the rank and file; they saw only the sadness of parting.

Probably more tears were shed at the station than at any time since. There were a few married men in the contingent, also, and this contributed to the feeling of sorrow which seemed to permeate nearly all.

The band played the men to the station and the veterans preceded them in autos. It was a sad day. So much was ahead in the future, so little was known about the camps, even at that time, that their folks seemed to think they were bidding the men good-bye forever. As a matter of fact, most of them returned home on furlough before they saw service on the other side.

The second contingent was a big one, eighty-four strong. The men were:

Third Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren October 3, 1917

With the departure of the Third Contingent of Selective Service men on October 3, 1918, Warren county began to realize better than before the seriousness of the grim struggle in which the nation had become involved. With only one exception, and that occurred the following year when "Skipper" Dowd got the crowd at the station in high fettle with his songs, none of the drafted groups left home but what many tears were shed at the last moment by relatives and friends. There was rarely joyousness in a man off to defend his country's honor, but rather, always the sorrow of parting which ruled all the other emotions.

This was the last call filled in 1917 and it was more than five months afterward, in February, 1918, before another group left. During the intervening time the questionnaire system was introduced with its detailed and exhaustive record of every man of draft age.

Because rulings and regulations had been so often changed and no plain line was yet laid down for the board members to follow with regard to married men whose wives might be able to support themselves, and because, it must be admitted, there was a feeling at that time that any woman, without a child, should be able to support herself with the government allowance and the deduction from her husband's pay. Several married men were included in this group, although more of them went in the second, but there were few thereafter.

After the regulations were narrowed on this point, so that the action of all boards was uniform, an effort was made by the board to bring these men back home. It was unsuccessful, however, and the chance that all took in the draft drawing, and which brought these particular men out first, while others similarly placed as to family were not sent later, made soldiers of them. As it turned out, pretty nearly every one of them afterward wrote back that he was delighted with the new life.

The boys who left Warren October 3, 1917, saw active service and at least one of them will not return home—William Van Ord, of Russell, who fell in action overseas.

H. L. Blair, assistant county superintendent of schools, captained this contingent, while Martin Hill acted as his lieutenant. The boys rode in autos to the station, thirty-eight of them. They were:

Anderson, Harold, Warren	Huck, Emmett P., Warren
Anderson, Ray A., Warren	Johnson, Lee Robert, Grand Valley
Bohren, Peter, Warren	Korisko, Peter, Sheffield
Bedford, Paul E., North Warren	Larson, Marshal O., Clarendon

Fourth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren February 13, 1918

The fourth group was notable if for no other reason than that it took away the county's best-known baseball player, a veteran of several big league teams, and at the time of his departure a Cleveland Indian, Eddie Klepfer, as he was best known by the fans. Klepfer captained his contingent. The judgment of the local board in selecting him for that position was proven later in France, when Klepfer was sent to Officers' Training School and came out as a second lieutenant. Other boys in the contingent also gave good accounts of themselves and all saw service with the American Expeditionary Forces on the other side.

As with the three previous groups from this county, the destination of the twenty-four men was Camp Lee. They left here the evening of February 13, 1918, and were given the customary warm send-off, made more enthusiastic by the fact that it was the first to leave the county since October 3, 1917.

Klepfer, immediately upon his arrival at Camp Lee, was made a member of the baseball team there and starred with the Soldiers in exhibition games against big league teams. He has since played baseball in France and, as he went through the struggle without harm befalling him, will doubtless be back with the big clubs in 1919.

The contingent of that night comprised:

Anderson, Kuth A., Warren	Kylander, Walter L., Warren
Bohren, Peter, Warren	Kell, Henry, Venturetown
Brown, Clinton W., North Warren	Monotro, Frank, Warren
Bosin, Louis G., Warren	Mason, Charles W., Warren

Fifth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren February 25, 1918

Again Warren wept and cheered. Again another group of her sons departed to be transformed by the wizardry of hard work into soldiers of the American legions that were to dispel autocracy.

Twenty-six more Warren county men gone and our interest in the war became that much greater. The men assembled in the draft board rooms at 7 o'clock in the evening and answered roll call. Belmont Donaldson was chosen to captain the group.

As the hour of departure approached, the doors were opened to friends and relatives and they trooped in to bid the loved ones farewell. Some of the good-byes were most touching. The band was stationed outside and during the time the crowd was waiting for the departure rendered a patriotic program.

A. C. Mook, of the board, told the boys as they were leaving that they could keep their heads to the front and not worry about the enemies back home.

"These enemies, should they show their heads," he said, "will be taken care of by the people back of the lines, in this country, and will not be permitted to divert the attention of our soldiers at the front."

Hundreds thronged the streets as the boys left that night for Camp Lee, escorted by the Grand Army veterans and the band. This particular group of men has seen bloody service on the western front earlier than many of their fellows, and several have been wounded. Charles E. Swanson, of Chandlers Valley, saw service as an aerial bomber for a time, and was later killed in action.

The twenty-six men who comprised the fifth contingent of Selective Service men from this county were:

Anderson, Christ M., Warren	Hutchinson, Glenn N., Warren

Sixth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren April 4, 1918

For the sixth time since the United States declared war on Germany and the men of the country began to rally to the defense of Democracy's rights, a contingent of Warren county men left their homes, for Camp Lee, and in realization of their sacrifice those who were to stay or were not yet called bade them farewell in fitting manner.

John Slater, of Youngsville, had the honor of being captain of this group. His corporals were: Ross L. Ruhlman, city clerk; Glenn E. Stone, James Preston Bilton, Francis Richardson, David Hughes, Richard Larson and John Rosenberg.

This contingent left on a special train for Camp Lee, which reached here about noon. D. U. Arird delivered the farewell address to them, and A. C. Mook, of the board, and Captain J. J. Haight, of Cooper's Tract, also spoke.

For the first time Forest county boys joined the Warren men and marched to the station with them. Those making up the Warren county contingent were:

Adams, Vertner, Russell	Lesser, Alfred B., North Warren
Anderson, James E., Russell	Lindsey, Clarence, Sheffield
Bilton, James P., Warren	Lumberg, Robert W., Clarendon
Benson, Fred S., Akron, O.	Lessler, William, Warren

Seventh Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren April 29, 1918

Camp Secretary A. F. Kottcamp, who was home to manage the second Red Cross campaign in Warren, had the honor of bidding the seventh draft contingent farewell. He had been stationed at Camp Lee up to that time and told the boys what they would find upon their arrival at the great cantonment. Secretary Kottcamp took a special interest in all the Warren county boys at Camp Lee and right glad they were to find a friendly face there they knew. Later he was assigned to Minneola, L. I., and at the close of the war was stationed at Hog Island ship yard, where he was in charge of the Y. M. C. A. work.

The departure was taken at 8:30 in the evening on a special train, following the parade, the boys being supplied, as usual, before leaving headquarters in the Struthers Library building with their comfort kits by the Red Cross, lunches by the Red Cross canteen committee, and smokes by Mrs. Blanche Partridge.

The contingent was captained by Harry Emil Anderson, of Sheffield, with Paul H. Coe, Lansing Clifford McMarrow and John William Connors as squad leaders, and numbered twenty-four men. Leroy MacGowan, who is accredited to this group, reported at Camp Lee from Quincy, Fla.

The boys in this group saw hard service. Edwin Burke was wounded and lost a foot. Louie Siefert was killed in action, after volunteering to bring up the noon-day meal for his comrades in a trench. Other of the contingent were also wounded.

The first of these boys to return home was Verner A. Backstrom, of this city, who fell ill shortly after his arrival on the other side, and who, at the time this book was issued, had received an honorable discharge. Those who went were:

Anderson, Harry E., Sheffield
Anderson, John A., Sheffield
Blackman, Ray R., Grand Valley
Brooks, Bennett, Warren
Backstrom, Verner A., Warren
Burke, Edwin, Warren
Connors, John W., Warren
Check, Ernest E., Warren

Eighth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren May 4, 1918

The first draft to go to any other than Camp Lee from this county was that which left May 4, 1918, numbering twenty-four men, under the leadership of Captain Edgar McClen, of this city. They departed at 10 o'clock in the morning, May 4, 1918, for Fort Thomas, Ky.

The parting was not without its note of sadness, both at draft board headquarters and the train. One youth who had never been away from home before broke down as he bade good-bye to his aged mother, and tears stood on the faces of the other men as they watched the scene. Encouraging and cheerful was the attitude of Chairman Hodges, of the board, as the men lined up at headquarters, and in a similar vein was the brief talk given the men by the Rev. J. W. Smith of the Presbyterian church.

"Don't be a quitter," he told the boys. "I hope you will go away today feeling 'I am going to be the best man who has ever gone out of Warren.' We are going to count on you. We believe in the type of our men we are raising in this nation. Be true to your Flag. It does not represent militarism. It represents the people of this country. It stands for the highest ideals. So when you go away, be true to all that is best in your own homes, in your community and in our national life."

The boys who made up the Eighth Selective Service contingent were:

Burgett, Lee G., Russell	Musselman, Oliver R., Youngsville
Charles, Howard E., Sheffield	McMichael, Wayne, Clarendon
Cooper, Harold A., Clarendon	Scalise, Antonio, Warren
Cappello, Joe, Sheffield	Scalise, Joseph, Warren
Engstrom, Levin E., Warren	Smith, Fred L., Sugar Grove
Hanson, Arthur H., Sheffield	Stearns, Alba L., Grand Valley
Hansen, George R., Clarendon	Nelson, Arthur G., Warren
McClen, Edgar L., Warren	Vanderhoff, Ralph, Corry

Training Camps

Camp Lee, which took most of the selective service men from Warren county, is located near St. Petersburg, Va. It is shaped like a horseshoe, the form followed with most of the cantonments. The boys who went from this county early in the draft found one old friend there in Secretary A. F. Kottcamp of the Warren Y. M. C. A., who was attached to Hut No. 12, of the Y. M. C. A., during 1917.

Later, Captain Robert Mackay, who had been trained at Fort Niagara, was stationed at Camp Lee. He was a lieutenant then, but quickly won his captain's epaulets. Camp Lee took ten of the sixteen contingents from the county, or men for general military service.

Only one general military service contingent went to Fort Thomas, Ky., which is located at a regular army fort across the river from Cincinnati. That was the group which departed May 4, 1918.

Camp Oglethorpe, Ga., drew one contingent, and a peculiar thing about it was that that group suffered the highest percentage of rejection of any which left here. This was the contingent which went June 1, 1918.

The boys who went out of Warren July 31 got their preliminary training in the same camp where Company I, 16th Regiment, was stationed for a time during the Spanish-American War. This was at Camp Forest, Lytle, Ga.

As America entered the second year of the war not so many Warren county contingents went to Camp Lee. That of August 9 was sent to Camp Wadsworth, Ga., and that of September 5 to Camp Greenleaf, Ga. The limited service contingent of September 6 went to Camp Dix, N. J.

None of the camps was so far distant but that relatives could visit the boys occasionally; and most of the men who went across were able to come home on furlough before they left for overseas.

In addition to these principal concentration camps, men were inducted into the service in Warren county, through the draft act, singly and in twos and threes, and sent all over the Union, several of them going to the Northwest, where they saw service in the spruce division.

Ninth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren May 29, 1918

The hero of this contingent was Charles Henry Lord. In going out with the twenty-five men who left May 29, 1918, for Camp Lee, he saw his dearest wish fulfilled. Young Lord tried to enlist in Company I, the Regular Army and the Navy. By having two operations, the defect which caused his previous rejections was eliminated. His order number was 1,469. The last number in the group that went that day for the man inducted in his turn was 1,146, so that 300 men of all classes stood between him and what would have been his proper place in the draft. If there was ever a volunteer from Warren county, it was Charles Henry Lord.

The men assembled at the Struthers Library at 11 a. m. The Rev. H. H. Barr, of Grace church, bade them do their duty and remember their God. Colonel David Gardner also spoke for a minute or two.

James Alexander Clark led the men as captain. His squad leaders were Gust N. Geracimos, John M. Farrell and Harmon Kelly Confer.

There were two other men in the group, making the total twenty-seven, who were inducted for other boards. They were Ralph E. Beardsley, Tuba City, Cal., and William Bimber, of Cleveland. Those who went were:

Bauer, Clyde E., Warren	Mason, William, Kinzua*
Clark, James A., Warren	Manceini, Julio E., Salamanca, N. Y.
Confer, Harmon K., Akeley	Peterson, Ernest F., Torpedo
Dunham, L. C., Sheffield	Peterson, Carl O., Warren

Training School Men

Sixteen more boys left June 15, 1918, in two separate groups, but instead of going to camp, they were sent to Pittsburgh and Erie, where they received special training as carpenters, blacksmiths, electricians and chauffeurs. It is to be regretted that a group picture of these men was never secured. Some of them, however, are contained in the pictures of the men further back in this book. They were:

Arnold, Charles A., Warren	Knudson, Knud Peter, Warren
Adams, Reverdy A., Russell	Kyler, Chester W., Warren
Betts, Clyde G., Warren	Larsen, Herbert R., Russell
Engstrom, Wayne O., Warren	Nagle, George O., Columbus
Farrell, Charles M., Warren	Parrish, Ross, Warren
Granquist, Harry J., Warren	Putnam, Leslie E., Russell
Hunter, Harold M., Warren	Swanson, Carl A., Sheffield
Johnson, Harry W., Akeley	Thelin, Fred, Warren

Leonard C. Ruland, of North Warren, left the following day for Vancouver Barracks, Vancouver, Wash., where he was inducted as a cook.

Tenth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren June 1, 1918

The county's tenth contingent, thirty-one in number, and raising the total of the Warren county draft to 304, left the morning of June 1, 1918, for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and departed amid more enthusiasm than had been shown previously during the year for a group of men on their way to the war.

Claude Northrop, a Bell Telephone company employe, headed the men as captain. His squad leaders were: John F. Anderegg, Curtis F. Shattuck, Ernest M. Bengston and Sterling D. Magee.

Dr. W. E. Staub, of the First Baptist church, made an impressive talk just after the boys had answered roll call and had their pictures taken at draft board headquarters.

"Be men," he told them. "You are going to great work and hard work, but be men. You are not going to murder and kill, but to win victory for the world, and that is the reason you strike the blow.

"'No man,' said Major Watt, 'ever died upon the field of battle without the name of some loving mother, sister, wife or sweetheart upon his lips.' Go, and carry in your minds and hearts the loving thoughts of those at home. I know you are to be good soldiers for America, and America will honor you as long as she stands—the brightest and noblest nation beneath the stars."

Those who went were:

Eleventh Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren June 28, 1918

The largest draft contingent to that date left Warren on June 28, 1918, captained by Jacob Leidig, well loved athletic coach and instructor at the Warren High School. His squad leaders were: Harold C. Putnam, Myron B. Messner, Melvin G. Keller, Paul V. Ruhlman, Percy R. Richardson, Leo J. Huber, Grover Lind, Andrew Nelson, Harold Esterbrook, Charles Atkins, Joseph Woodruff, Hildring Pearson and Mike Papavero.

"If I were over there at the head of this bunch, we could kill the Kaiser by night," Chairman Hodges told the boys as they assembled in the State Armory, and they cheered.

They were called together early in the afternoon and were presented their arm bands and Red Cross supplies. The Chamber of Commerce served a buffet luncheon at 5:30 p. m. for the boys who cared to partake.

The farewell was one of the greatest patriotic demonstrations the county has ever seen. Perhaps only when Company I returned from the Mexican border was there a greater crowd on the streets. The parade was immense, embracing the A. F. of M. band, Odd Fellows, Elks, Knights of Columbus, Red Cross, Company M and Eben N. Ford Post just ahead of the men, who were in automobiles.

On arrival at the station a large crowd was there, which for a few minutes packed all available space. As the train pulled out lusty cheers were given for the boys and the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," while the hundreds of automobiles tooted their horns and caused a din of noise that could be heard a great distance.

Twelfth Selective Service Contingent

Five men of this contingent, the biggest that left Warren county, died before their comrades returned home. A peculiar thing about their deaths was that all were from disease. Garnett Noyes, of Warren, died of pneumonia; Arthur Hagle, of Pittsfield, was a victim of influenza and pneumonia at Camp Lee; Sterling Atkins, of Big Bend, of spinal meningitis in France; Ed. Koebley, of Warren, of pneumonia in France, and R. H. Carr, of Sheffield, died of disease in France.

Twelfth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren July 26, 1918

Warren county's twelfth contingent—156 men—got away with more dispatch than any that had gone before. There was speed and precision in every movement from the roll call at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to the entraining at 8 o'clock in the evening. Much of the good work in keeping back the crowd at the station was due to Superintendent of Volunteer Police Fred M. Hartmann, who had Chestnut street, between the station and Struthers-Wells plant roped off.

A sad feature of the history of this great contingent is that the leader, Garnett M. Noyes, died, a victim of pneumonia on September 24, 1918, at Camp Lee, less than two months after he left home at the head of his proud band.

The farewell address to the boys was delivered in the afternoon by Representative John Siggins.

"Remember your mother and her teachings," he told the boys, "and those dear ones you leave behind, for you go to protect and defend them. Go, with the blessings of this county. Go, with our wishes that you all return safe and sound. Go, with our hope, trust and prayer that the just God who presides over the destinies of nations will guide and protect you. We are proud of you, and, while we cannot take your place as a selected man, we will do all in our power to keep our own community safe from any evils while you are gone."

Again there was another great parade that evening with the leading patriotic and fraternal organizations taking part. It was another wonderful demonstration like that of June 28th. Many well known names are to be found on the roster below of the men who left July 26, 1918:

Thirteenth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren July 31, 1918

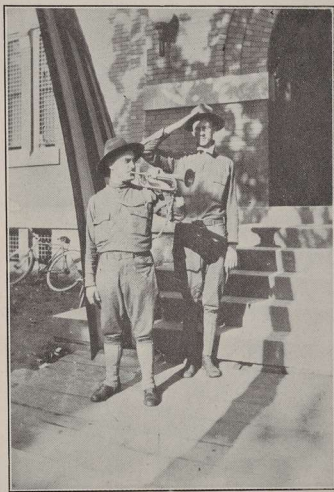

It was in the departure of this draft that Chairman E. M. Hodges first emphasized an idea which had been touched upon slightly the week before by A. C. Mook of the board, that the selected men of our country are deserving of every honor bestowed upon enlisted men.

"We congratulate you this morning," said the Chairman, "because of your loyalty and ready response to the call for service. The impression has gone out somehow that the man who enlists is entitled to more credit, and more glory, than the man who is, as they say, a drafted man. We don't recognize you this morning as drafted men. You are simply selected to take your place in our country's great Army."

"You all took your chance by lot; none had the advantage. I want to say that the man whose number is 3,086 is entitled to just as much credit and glory as the man whose number was one and who is now fighting in France."

There were 27 boys in this draft and they went to Lytle, Georgia. Those who left were:

Anderson, S. T., Sugar Grove	Gifford, Emil D., Grand Valley
Akeley, Fred, Russell	Hultberg, George B., Warren
Askine, Charles L., Warren	Hultberg, Carl L., Warren

Fourteenth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren August 9, 1918

Warren county's fourteenth contingent for a United States Army cantonment comprising nearly fifty men, was called at 3 o'clock August 8, 1918, and left the following morning for Camp Wadsworth, South Carolina, the first men from this county to go there.

They were captained by Moss Connelly, of the Warren National Bank, and his squad leaders were A. E. Hultberg, the third of the Hultberg boys to leave, W. V. Christian, Lloyd A. White, Carl Sallade, John C. Koepp and C. L. Miller.

Father L. A. McBride of the Holy Redeemer church delivered the farewell to them. "Before you go I want to put before you three things," he said. "First, brother love. One for all and all for one, in the camp, the field of battle, the hospital or in prison styes of hate, be loyal and true to one another.

"The second is duty, first, last, and all the time.

"The third, don't forget those dear ones at home. They are with you in thought and memory every hour of the day and night. See that they are provided for by you, and then write a good long letter. Don't forget the mother that bore thee."

Skipper Dowd, a recruiting noncom for the Navy, sang the boys away the next morning at the station. Those who went were:

Fifteenth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren August 29, 1918

Under lowering skies but with glad hearts twenty-nine more Warren county boys departed the morning of August 29, 1918, for Camp Lee, the cantonment which had taken up to that date nearly three-fourths of the men drafted from this county.

The boys met at headquarters at 8 o'clock and a half hour later they were on their way to the station with the Warren band playing in war-like strain and the Grand Army veterans accompanying them in automobiles.

At the Pennsylvania station there were several hundred persons gathered to bid the men God-speed and a cheer rent the air as the train pulled out with its precious cargo.

The group that left this day included Harry N. Lindquist, who was inducted for the board in Detroit, Mich., and Joseph McGuire, a man in the second class. His wife waived an exemption claim for him and he was able to go voluntarily.

One of the proudest fathers at the station was Charles Johnson of Tidioute. On his coat he wore a tiny service flag with three stars. His third boy, Albert Johnson, was in the group. Those who went were:

Belz, Vernley H., Warren	Kenny, Donald E., Grand Valley
Burton, Willis G., Warren	Kindig, Paul E., Warren

Sixteenth Selective Service Contingent

Leaving Warren September 5, 1918

The last contingent of general service men to leave the county, because the draft classes to that date were about depleted and because of the new registration which was coming on September 12, was that of September 5, 1918, fifty strong. They went to Camp Greenleaf, Georgia.

"The breast of every patriotic American must swell with pride," said Chairman D. I. Ball of the Public Safety committee, in connection with this departure, "at the spirit that has been displayed by these men as they go from us. They are not callous to those finer feelings which do honor to us individually, but are governed by that high sense of duty and loyalty which we have seen displayed by each successive contingent of selected men, as they in their turn have departed.

"We ask you as you go across the sea, to bear to all you meet, whose cause is ours, the message from our people, that the fires of patriotism and loyalty are burning brighter and brighter, with a zeal that will not be quenched. And, if occasion offers, we know you will carry that message to the heart of the Huns with such force and effect that they will hereafter respect, and the German Kaiser, if he lives and continues to occupy his throne, will bow to it." Those who left on that day were:

Adopted by French

While various organizations and individuals in Warren, out of natural kindness and sympathy, were pledging the cost of caring for French orphans of the war, the kindly couple shown here, out of the thankfulness of their hearts to the great nation in the West, adopted a Warren boy. He was Torsten Milenius, Marine, wounded at Chateau-Thierry, and is shown with his foster parents, Captain and Madame Cuissart. Milenius was the first boy from this city to be wounded in France. He enlisted from Cleveland with his brother, Sigurd Milenius, and saw early service on the western front. After being wounded, he was removed to a base hospital and it was while recuperating from his wounds that he met the delightful French couple, who cared for him as they could while he remained in France.

Limited Service Men

Leaving Warren September 6, 1918

The Draft board had not completed the detail in connection with the departure of the contingent for Camp Greenleaf on September 5, before it was called upon to speed off another group of men, this time Limited Service Men who had been called for Camp Dix, New Jersey. They were the first men from this county to be sent there.

The Limited Service men did their duty for their country just as much as those in the front lines, and through physical limitations only were they kept from participating in actual fighting with the others, a fact which was brought out with the departure of this group. They left on the 8 o'clock train the evening of September 6. Percy N. Gilson and Henry L. Giltinan later returned home, having failed to pass the requirements at camp. Those who made up the contingent were:

Percy N. Gilson, Warren
 Henry L. Giltinan, Russell
 Raymond A. Pierce, Warren
 Freeman Peterson, Warren
 Henry Dahler, Warren
 Frank Dill, Warren
 Clyde O. Johnson, Akeley
 George W. Smith, Columbus

Albert J. Arnold, Russell
 Isaac L. Ewan, Sheffield
 Millard E. Mattison, Sugar Grove
 Carl E. Person, Warren
 Ira G. Darling, Warren
 George E. Heible, Warren
 Fred F. Burrows, Kinzua

Limited Service Men

Leaving Warren October 4, 1918

Emmit Swanson of Akeley, who captained the contingent of Limited Service Men that left October 4th, was the first man to be sent a second time to camp. He had previously been to Fort Oglethorpe with a general military service contingent. The Limited Service Men he captained went to Fort Thomas, Kentucky. It is a regrettable fact that their picture was never taken in a group. They were:

Buell, Vernie J., Sugar Grove

Beckenbach, Adolph, Youngsville

Farnham, Archie D., Warren

Linder, Peter C., Warren

Oberg, Erick, Sheffield

Smith, George D., Russell

Swanson, Emmit, Akeley

The Red Cross

The first War Relief work in Warren was begun early in 1915 by what was known as the War Relief Committee, organized through the efforts of the Rev. W. H. Jones, Dr. Elizabeth S.

Dr. H. W. Mitchell

Beatty and Mrs. Harry A. Logan. The work of this committee continued throughout that year and until the following spring, when it was decided to organize as a chapter of the American Red Cross.

The Warren County Chapter was formed with sixty charter members, and the chapter charter was dated June 2, 1916. As first organized, Mr. Miner D. Cray was chairman; the Rev. W. H. Jones vice-chairman; Mrs. F. E. Hertz, treasurer, and Mrs. Willis Cowan, secretary. At the annual meeting held October 27th, 1916, the Rev. W. H. Jones was made chairman, Mr. Miner D. Cray treasurer and Mrs. J. H. West became secretary.

The headquarters of the War Relief Committee was the Parish House of the Episcopal church, but the work was, for a time, transferred to the First Methodist church. The greater part of the work, however, was returned to the Parish House and conducted there until May, 1917, when the Conewango Club donated the second and third floors of its building for the use of the Red Cross.

The first effort to obtain an increase in membership throughout the county was made in June, 1916, when Company I started for the Mexican border. At that time the membership was raised to eight hundred and forty-two.

The first Red Cross War Fund campaign was conducted in June, 1917, with the Conewango Club as headquarters, and a total fund in excess of $117,000 was raised. The Chapter's efforts won for Warren the distinction of being the second town in the country on the campaign honor roll, the amount raised per capita being in excess of seven dollars.

The second War Fund campaign in May, 1918, brought in a total subscription of $138,200.00, of which $118,704.02 was paid in November 1st, 1918.

In September, 1917, the Rev. W. H. Jones resigned as chairman of the Chapter to take his place as Chaplain of the Second Ohio Artillery, and at the annual meeting on October 16th, Dr. H. W. Mitchell was elected in his place. Mr. N. C. Sill, who has done most admirable work as cashier of the first Red Cross War Fund, was then made assistant treasurer.

The membership of the Chapter at this time was shown to be twenty-three hundred and seventeen, with seventeen branches. The Christmas Membership campaign added about sixty-five hundred members, making a total of nine thousand and sixty-two. The Junior membership at this time was sixty-two hundred and seven.

The annual report for the year ending October 1, 1916, showed total disbursements of $1,093.96. The report of the year ending October 1, 1917, showed total disbursements of $10,911.02, and the report for the year ending October 1, 1918, showed total disbursements of $57,905.34.

After the annual meeting in 1917, a new organization outlined by Division Headquarters was put into effect, as follows:

Woman's Bureau—Mrs. M. W. Jamieson, chairman, with Mrs. C. R. Henry in charge of Surgical Dressings; Mrs. W. H. Jones, in charge of Hospital Supplies, and Mrs. Carrie Y. Horton, in charge of Knitted Garments.

Bureau of Supplies—Dr. Elizabeth S. Beaty, chairman.

Bureau of Civilian Relief—Mrs. Harry A. Logan, chairman.

Bureau of Development—Captain Geo. W. Campbell, chairman.

Red Cross Workers

Men Who Raised $117,000 in 1917 Red Cross Campaign

Bureau of Publicity—Miss Ella M. Tybout, chairman.
 Bureau of Hygiene—Dr. J. R. Durham, chairman
 Bureau of Junior Membership—Prof. R. T. Adams, chairman.
 Bureau of Accounts—Dr. Miner D. Crary, chairman.
 Canteen Service—Mrs. James Edwards, chairman.

The Woman's Bureau is the manufacturing center of the Red Cross, and it occupies the headquarters at the Conewango Club, with the exception of one room for office purposes. Here are made the hospital supplies and refugee garments, the surgical dressings, the comfort kits and the socks and sweaters so necessary for the welfare of our soldiers. This important branch of the work is divided into three departments, as follows:

Department No. 1—Surgical Dressings.
 Department No. 2—Hospital Supplies and Refugee Garments.
 Department No. 3—Knitted Garments and Comforts.

The large ballroom on the third floor of the Club is given over to surgical dressings. It is fitted up with long tables and with an electric cutter for cutting gauze and cotton bandages. The second floor is devoted to hospital and refugee garments, knitted articles, the stores of the Bureau of Supplies, the Packing Committee, the Accounting Department and the Chapter office. Here also an electric cutter is busy every day in the week, cutting flannel and other material to be made into garments of standard patterns furnished by Headquarters.

Evening classes have also been conducted here and it has not been uncommon to see a number of men in attendance, helping with the sewing, knitting and other work. This work has gone on unceasingly during the war and was only seriously interrupted once, before hostilities ceased, and that was by the quarantine regulations which forbade even Red Cross gatherings while the epidemic was at its worst in Warren.

*After volunteering as a student nurse, Miss Jaycox fell ill with pneumonia and the armistice was signed before she recovered. She did not enter the Red Cross service.

During the year 1916 to 1917, the Woman's Bureau made and shipped away a total of 26,609 garments and surgical dressings, and during the year 1917-1918 a total of 202,417 of these articles were made, as follows:

Surgical Dressings	163,259
Hospital Supplies and Refugee Garments	25,064
Knitted Articles and Comforts	14,094

A comparison of the work of the two years above mentioned shows the growth of the Red Cross in Warren county during that time.

The boxes for packing and shipping these articles are made by the High School boys under the direction of their manual training teacher, Mr. John Broderick. Approximately four hundred have been made to November 1, 1918.

Another important branch of the Red Cross work is the Bureau of Civilian Relief. It is the duty of this department to look after the families of drafted and enlisted men, giving them financial assistance when necessary and being always ready with advice and information concerning pay allotments, war risk insurance and the many puzzling questions that continually arise when the bread-winner is absent. Through the efforts of this department families are enabled to keep in closer touch with the boys on the other side; to obtain direct information concerning casualties, and to straighten out the complications that sometimes occur with insurance, etc. Messages are sent to the Communication Branch of the Red Cross at Washington and are then forwarded directly overseas to the man in question. He in turn cables his reply, which is transmitted immediately by the Communication Service to the Civilian Relief Branch at home, and much vexatious and unnecessary delay is thus avoided.

In conclusion it may not be amiss to speak of the spirit which actuates the Red Cross in Warren county, and extends from the chairman of the Chapter to the youngest member of the Junior Branch.

The work is entirely voluntary and often quite arduous, necessitating close attention and careful execution. Many hours each week must be given to checking up accounts; to corresponding with Headquarters; to cutting and preparing work for regular work days; to packing and inspecting completed articles, and to ordering and receiving supplies, etc. This service is given gladly and cheerfully by the heads of the departments and their assistants and by the many devoted women of the town who work regularly and efficiently and with but little, if any, recognition of their services.

The Chapter salutes its soldiers and sailors and assures them that the Warren County Red Cross is ready to stand behind the man behind the gun whenever necessary.

Marie Botchford Kittredge Mildred J. Allen

These two young women of Warren served during the war, in New York, as members of the Motor Corps, Women's League for National Service.

Warren Boys With French

These five Warren boys enlisted shortly after the United States entered the war in the Seventh Ambulance Company of the University of New York. They trained at Allentown, Pa., and on reaching France were assigned to Unit 593, Convois Automobile. They saw hard service, and two of them, Brasington and Boynton, brought home the French War Cross for distinguished service.

Public Safety Committee

The Public Safety Committee of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had its origin in a conference of the Governors of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and

D. I. Ball

Maryland, at which a plan was outlined for the appointment of a Committee of Public Safety for each of these states. In pursuance of this action of these Governors, Governor Brumbaugh, on the twenty-first of March, 1917, named some two hundred citizens of Pennsylvania to act as a Committee of Public Safety in co-operation with, and in subordination to, the National Council of Defense, and in a general way, as then outlined, to make an exhaustive inventory of the industrial and other resources of the Commonwealth, to determine what, in case of necessity, this Commonwealth could supply in aid of the general government, and to know the place and manner of resorting to it. Pursuant to the call of the Governor, these selected citizens of the Commonwealth met in the Capitol at Harrisburg for organization.

David I. Ball was the member of this committee appointed from Warren county, and later Ralph W. Stone, Esq., was also appointed by the Governor a member of the committee.

Following the organization of the State Committee, the Governor appointed the following persons members of the committee for the county of Warren:

Ladies: Miss Gertrude G. Deible, Mrs. L. L. Hunter, Mrs. Sarah A. Logan, Mrs. E. S. Lindsey, Mrs. Charles P. McCalmont, Miss Ida Neal, Mrs. George W. Schott, Mrs. W. D. Todd, Mrs. S. E. Walker and Mrs. J. H. West.

Gentlemen: K. M. Andrews, Dr. W. M. Baker, W. F. Bennett, H. M. Beshlin, Jerry Borden, R. N. Brown, Dr. E. S. Briggs, C. T. Conarro, Dr. J. T. Danforth, Dr. W. C. DeForest, Hon. Joseph H. DeFress, J. H. Driscoll, R. H. Duntley, H. G. Eaton, Col. David Gardner, T. C. Hawkey, E. M. Hodges, L. J. Holmes, Hon. Charles S. Knabb, Ulysses Grant Lyons, L. C. Jamieson, John G. McDonald, Robert L. Mead, T. T. Moll, J. P. Rogers, W. R. Schellhammer, Hon. C. M. Shortt, H. A. Siggins, N. C. Sill, C. H. Smith, Sam Q. Smith, Scott C. Stuart, W. A. Talbott, Hon. Z. T. Weaver, R. H. Winger and Williston P. Wood. These persons were in due time assigned to appropriate committees in perfecting the organization. To these there were afterwards added, in making up the committees, M. C. Parshall, A. A. Albaugh and Ed. Corah, upon the Committee on Motors and Motor Trucks, with Captain U. G. Lyons as chairman.

These ladies and gentlemen, constituting the local organization of the Warren County Public Safety Committee, were carefully selected, were able and capable citizens, were leading representatives of different societies, organizations and business establishments, and not the least of their qualifications for the duties required of them during these times, they were intensely patriotic. It is not their fault if any of these persons have not attracted public attention in the performance of their duties as members of this committee. There were other organizations occupying different fields of activities, and besides there were other circumstances which gave direction to the work of the committee. It has been the policy of the executive officers of the committee to not unnecessarily duplicate activities in patriotic work. Changes have taken place and new fields of activity have opened up from time to time during the progress of the war and in the preparation for its prosecution, which gave a new direction to activities not originally contemplated.

The first public demonstration in which this new organization took part, was the great public gathering of the people held in the Opera House at the beginning of the war, at which

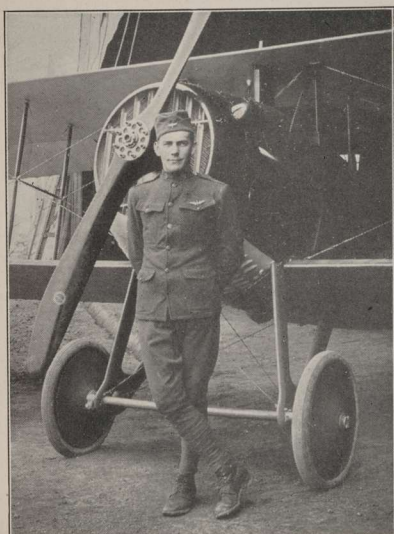

PUBLIC SAFETY OFFICIALS

1. W. D. Todd, County Food Administrator. Mr. Todd had charge of the Food Administration work in this county from beginning to end. He was responsible for the five cent delivery system which eliminated unnecessary labor employed on delivery wagons.
2. Charles Schimmelfeng, County Fuel Administrator, succeeded Mr. John Campbell, who served when the Garfield order of 1917 was in effect.
3. Melvin Jackson, Executive Secretary of the Public Safety Committee. He succeeded Hugh V. Hazeltine when the latter resigned to go to France in the Y. M. C. A. service.
4. Mrs. J. P. Rogers, Chairman of the Women's Council of National Defense for Warren county, and prominent in the patriotic work among the women of the county during the war.
5. Mrs. S. E. Walker, Chairman of the Food Conservation committee, and who did much good work along that line.
6. B. G. Gregory, Farm Labor Director for the county. He placed men on the farms from Warren factories and helped materially in the harvesting of the crops.
7. Harry Johnston, Boys' Work Director for Warren county. He secured boys to help on the farms during the war.
8. Fred Hartmann, Superintendent of Volunteer Police, helped in handling the crowds at the draft departures, and were stationed at most of the industrial plants.

the scope of this organization was briefly outlined. In connection with other organizations and parties, it took an active part in encouraging the farmers to increase the produce of their farms during the year 1917. Under the patronage of the Public Safety Committee were given two of the finest public demonstrations ever undertaken in the Borough of Warren—the patriotic parade on Registration Day, June 5, 1917, in honor of the first draft men registered, and the Fourth of July celebration on July 4, 1918. During the year 1917 signatures were obtained to thousands of Pledge Food Cards throughout the county, and much done to formulate a public sentiment to conserve the use of food. The food and fuel regulations throughout the county have been under the Public Safety Committee, Mr. W. D. Todd being chairman of the food regulations and Hon. John W. Campbell and later Mr. Charles Schimmelfeng chairman of the fuel regulations of the county. Many meetings have been held throughout the county to stimulate and inform public sentiment, largely through the Speakers Bureau, of which Mr. Hugh V. Hazeltine was the chairman. Under its leadership, as representing the people of the county, large demonstrations have been given to every contingent of Selected Service Men leaving Warren for the various camps to which they were assigned. All of these demonstrations were intensely patriotic and inspiring to the Selected Men leaving their homes to become members of the great armies of the Republic. Some of these demonstrations were wonderful in the numbers of persons turning out and in the interest, enthusiasm and sympathy manifested toward the departing soldiers. Without going into further details, it may be summed up in a few words that the Public Safety Committee, through its various members and agencies, has endeavored to improve every opportunity for informing and arousing a patriotic public sentiment.

The Public Safety Committee does not claim any exclusive credit for any one of the affairs above recited, or for others not mentioned. It recognizes fully the efforts of every person connected with either of these events, and concedes to each one the full measure of credit. It has endeavored to act without friction and in harmony with every organization and individual with which it became associated in any patriotic effort intended for the general good. The overshadowing interest in the great cause which through all these years lies so near to the hearts of all has been to it a binding tie to every patriotic person and movement. Especially to the daily papers of the borough do the executive officers of the committee desire to here tender their appreciation of the facilities given for reaching the public mind. Reference has not been made to other individuals for the reason that space would not permit reference to all, and describing the deeds of some might be doing injustice to others not mentioned.

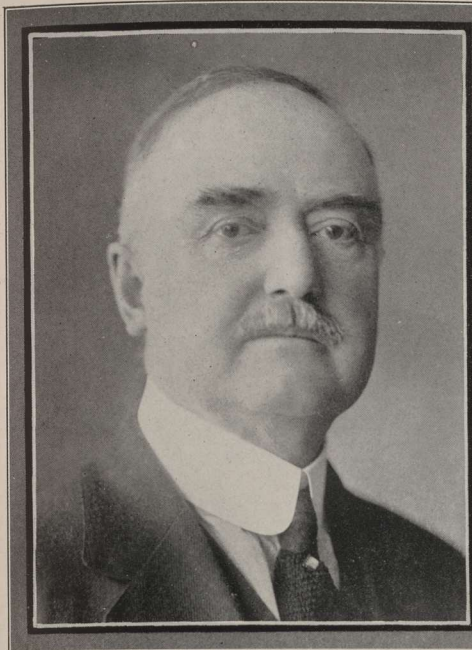

Sergeant Charles A. Beck, of Warren, a machinist with the Aviation Service. "You would hardly know Paris now," he wrote home under date of November 23, 1918, "for since they signed the armistice the bright lights made their appearance. Before, all the lights were blue and far between."

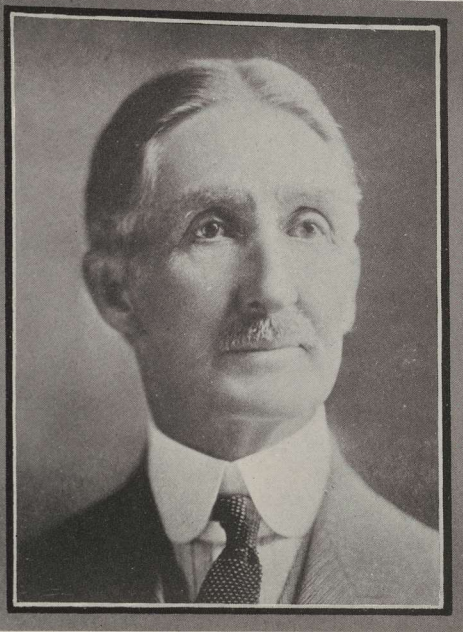

Insurance Men Who Sold Bonds

In the Third Liberty Loan the above insurance men raised $86,000 in 1,600 subscriptions. The total amount secured was not so remarkable as the number of subscriptions, which represented nearly half the total number in the town of Warren. Insurance men had done nearly as well in the Second Loan drive, but no accurate account was kept of results attained by them. In the Fourth Loan the cumulative effect of advertising and interest from the preceding drives made their services unnecessary as a unit, though most of them sold bonds in that drive.

Liberty Loan Drives

Subscriptions secured by the banks of the county for the first Liberty Loan were never officially compiled for the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland. The subscription in this county to that loan totalled $740,000.

To attempt to include herewith the pictures of all those who worked hard for the success of the various loans would mean that hundreds of pictures would have to be used, because there was no part of the county in which the ardent Liberty Loan worker was not to be found during the progress of the campaigns.

Mr. A. J. Hazeltine acted as executive chairman for the first and second drives and Mr. D. L. Gerould for the third and fourth, while Mrs. Rose Hammond served as chairman of the women's committee, which had a large part in the success of the third and fourth campaigns, as did also the Boy Scouts in the last three campaigns and the citizens' committee organized by E. D. Wetmore under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, in the fourth drive.

The county's figures by banks for the second, third and fourth loan drives were:

Company M, 3rd Infantry, P. R. M.

Company M, 3rd Infantry, P. R. M.

Company M, 3d Infantry Pennsylvania Reserve Militia, was mustered into the service March 4, 1918, after it had seen its first service at the Corydon ice gorge two weeks before. The reserve militia was formed to take the place at home of the guardsmen who had been mustered into federal service and in Warren Co. M took the place of Co. I.

Dr. J. T. Danforth was commissioned captain January 16, 1918, and later Albert Knabb received a commission as second lieutenant in the command. The second platoon of the company was organized at Bradford. Second Lieutenant Knabb and nine others of the original organization entered federal service before the armistice was signed. Following Lieut. Knabb's resignation, Frank C. Bogart, quartermaster sergeant, was commissioned in his place.

The boys who went into Company M were either those under the draft age of the early part of 1918, when they were recruited, or else they were men whose families had placed them in fourth class. This was true without exception.

The first service of the Warren platoon was at Corydon in February, 1918. The Corydon ice jam was a historic event of 1918. The river turned from its course and flowed through the village of Corydon, dividing the town into two parts. This condition existed for nearly a week and upwards of $50,000 in damage was done. The guardsmen were called out because the railroad had 500 men in Corydon repairing its bridges and it was thought the people might need aid. The Warren platoon spent two days in Corydon and afterward several men of the Bradford platoon did guard duty. Incidentally, the local company was the first in the state to see service. The gorge was finally broken up with dynamite and higher water. The new concrete bridge over the Allegheny at Warren, which was thrown open five months later, was threatened with destruction by the ice in the river at this time, said to be the heaviest since 1838, but it escaped.

As the war continued several of the younger men in the platoon enlisted for active service, while others joined the Students' Army Training Corps. Charles Folkman, cook of the company, went to France as a Y. M. C. A. secretary.

During the year 1918 Company M assisted in several of the draft farewells. The command is a clean-cut one, the men all being carefully selected. The Warren platoon has attained a high state of proficiency under Captain Danforth and was so well thought of by high officers of the Guard that the December, 1918, issue of Our State Army and Navy Journal was almost exclusively devoted to it, containing, as well, many beautiful pictures of Warren.

At the time this book was issued it was believed that before long Warren would be given a full company and the system of having the first platoon in this city and the second in Bradford would be discontinued. In the event a full company is authorized for Warren, men who saw active service in the war will be invited to join.

Because of the enlistments the Warren company was down to the strength pictured on the opposite page in the fall of 1918. The men shown are:

Second row: Privates Clarence A. Reynolds, Charles N. MacWilliams, Royal Haas, Leon Dietsch, Richard Myers, William Baird, E. B. Whiting.

Third row: Donald Dove, Jas. Alfred Bloomquist, Frank M. Roller, William A. Covert, Ebert J. Clark.

Fourth row: R. C. Lund, Charles Gordon, Christian J. Marker.

Warren Boy Scouts of America

Warren Boy Scouts of America

When this country entered the war the first contribution of the Warren Boy Scouts of America was to give a majority of its valued and experienced officials to the service. Among those formerly on its roll who are now in the army, navy or Y. M. C. A. war service are: former Scout Commissioner Yeager, former Scoutmasters Leroy MacGowan, H. S. Keck and C. A. Anderson, Assistant Scoutmasters Henry Walker, Lewis Sigworth and John Messner, Council Secretary J. H. West and Deputy Commissioner H. V. Hazeltine. A considerable number of former scouts have also made good in the service, particularly in the signal corps, where their former scout training has been of especial help.

The first war work of the scouts was in assisting to increase the food supply either in individual or in troop and patrol war gardens. This work has been continued during the last two summers. In the past vacation most of the older scouts have worked on farms or in other places where owing to the labor shortage, their services have been much needed. The scouts have served as dispatch bearers for the government on numerous occasions, distributing patriotic literature. They have frequently handled literature and posters for the Council of National Defense. The Red Cross Society, Food Conservation Department and other patriotic agencies. They have assisted as traffic police and escorts at demonstrations and parades, have aided the Grand Army on Memorial Day, have made and delivered packing cases for the Red Cross Chapter and have secured Government awards for the sale of quantities of war savings stamps. They have located and reported disloyal citizens, have assisted in suppressing wireless stations, have distributed useful pamphlets whenever and wherever occasion permitted. Their most conspicuous service has been in selling Liberty Bonds, starting with 120 sales amounting to $14,000, in the first campaign, 290 sales of $82,450 in the second, 346 sales of $113,400 and finishing the fourth with a splendid record of 865 sales, amounting to $246,950. Five scouts received Government medals for the sale of ten or more bonds in the first campaign, 12 in the second, 17 in the third and 47 in the fourth. The total of their sales, this being for Warren borough alone, has been 1,621 subscriptions, amounting to $456,800.

Always behind the scouts have been their loyal, patriotic scoutmasters, generally not much in evidence publicly, but ever on the job behind the scenes, directing and advising. With due respect and regard for the war work of other boys and their organizations, the scouts, on account of their efficient organization and special opportunities have had unusual opportunities to participate in Warren's memorable part in the war and may well be proud of the work they have done. Clare Cray was scout commissioner during the war.

State Hospital Nurses

The following Warren State Hospital graduates engaged in Red Cross, Army or Navy Service work during the war:

Harriet H. Baird, Leone Kingsley, Florine Goodenow, Florence Hilyer, Madeline Geary, Jeannette Allen, Grace Cornell, Gertrude Ward, Agnes McLaughlin, Blanche Martin, Laura Marsh, Margaret Sweeney, Flora E. Darling, Melva McQuiston, Anna McDermott, Blanche Ohlson and Delcie Moore.

Louise Miller, Mary G. C. Hayes and Dorcas Moore joined, but the hospital made application to have them retained in its service. In addition to these, seven nurses made application to enter the service and held themselves in readiness for marching order. Three male nurses also entered the service: Ralph Aharrah, Camp Service Base Hospital; Charles Hudson, Overseas; Louis Hale, Camp Service Base Hospital.

Library War Service

The Warren Public Library did not take the least important part in the work which was done in this county during the war. Not only did it give the Draft Board and Food Administration the use of the rooms in the Struthers Library building, which they occupied as their headquarters, but it distributed hundreds of leaflets and bulletins on food conservation in Warren homes, as well as superintending the work of the Junior Red Cross in making hospital books.

In addition to this 2,500 books were sent to the camps for soldiers, 125 booklets containing short stories were sent away to the hospital after they had been made in the Library; $500 was collected for the A. L. A. work in the first campaign, and $100 was given in the United War Work campaign.

Hands Across the Sea

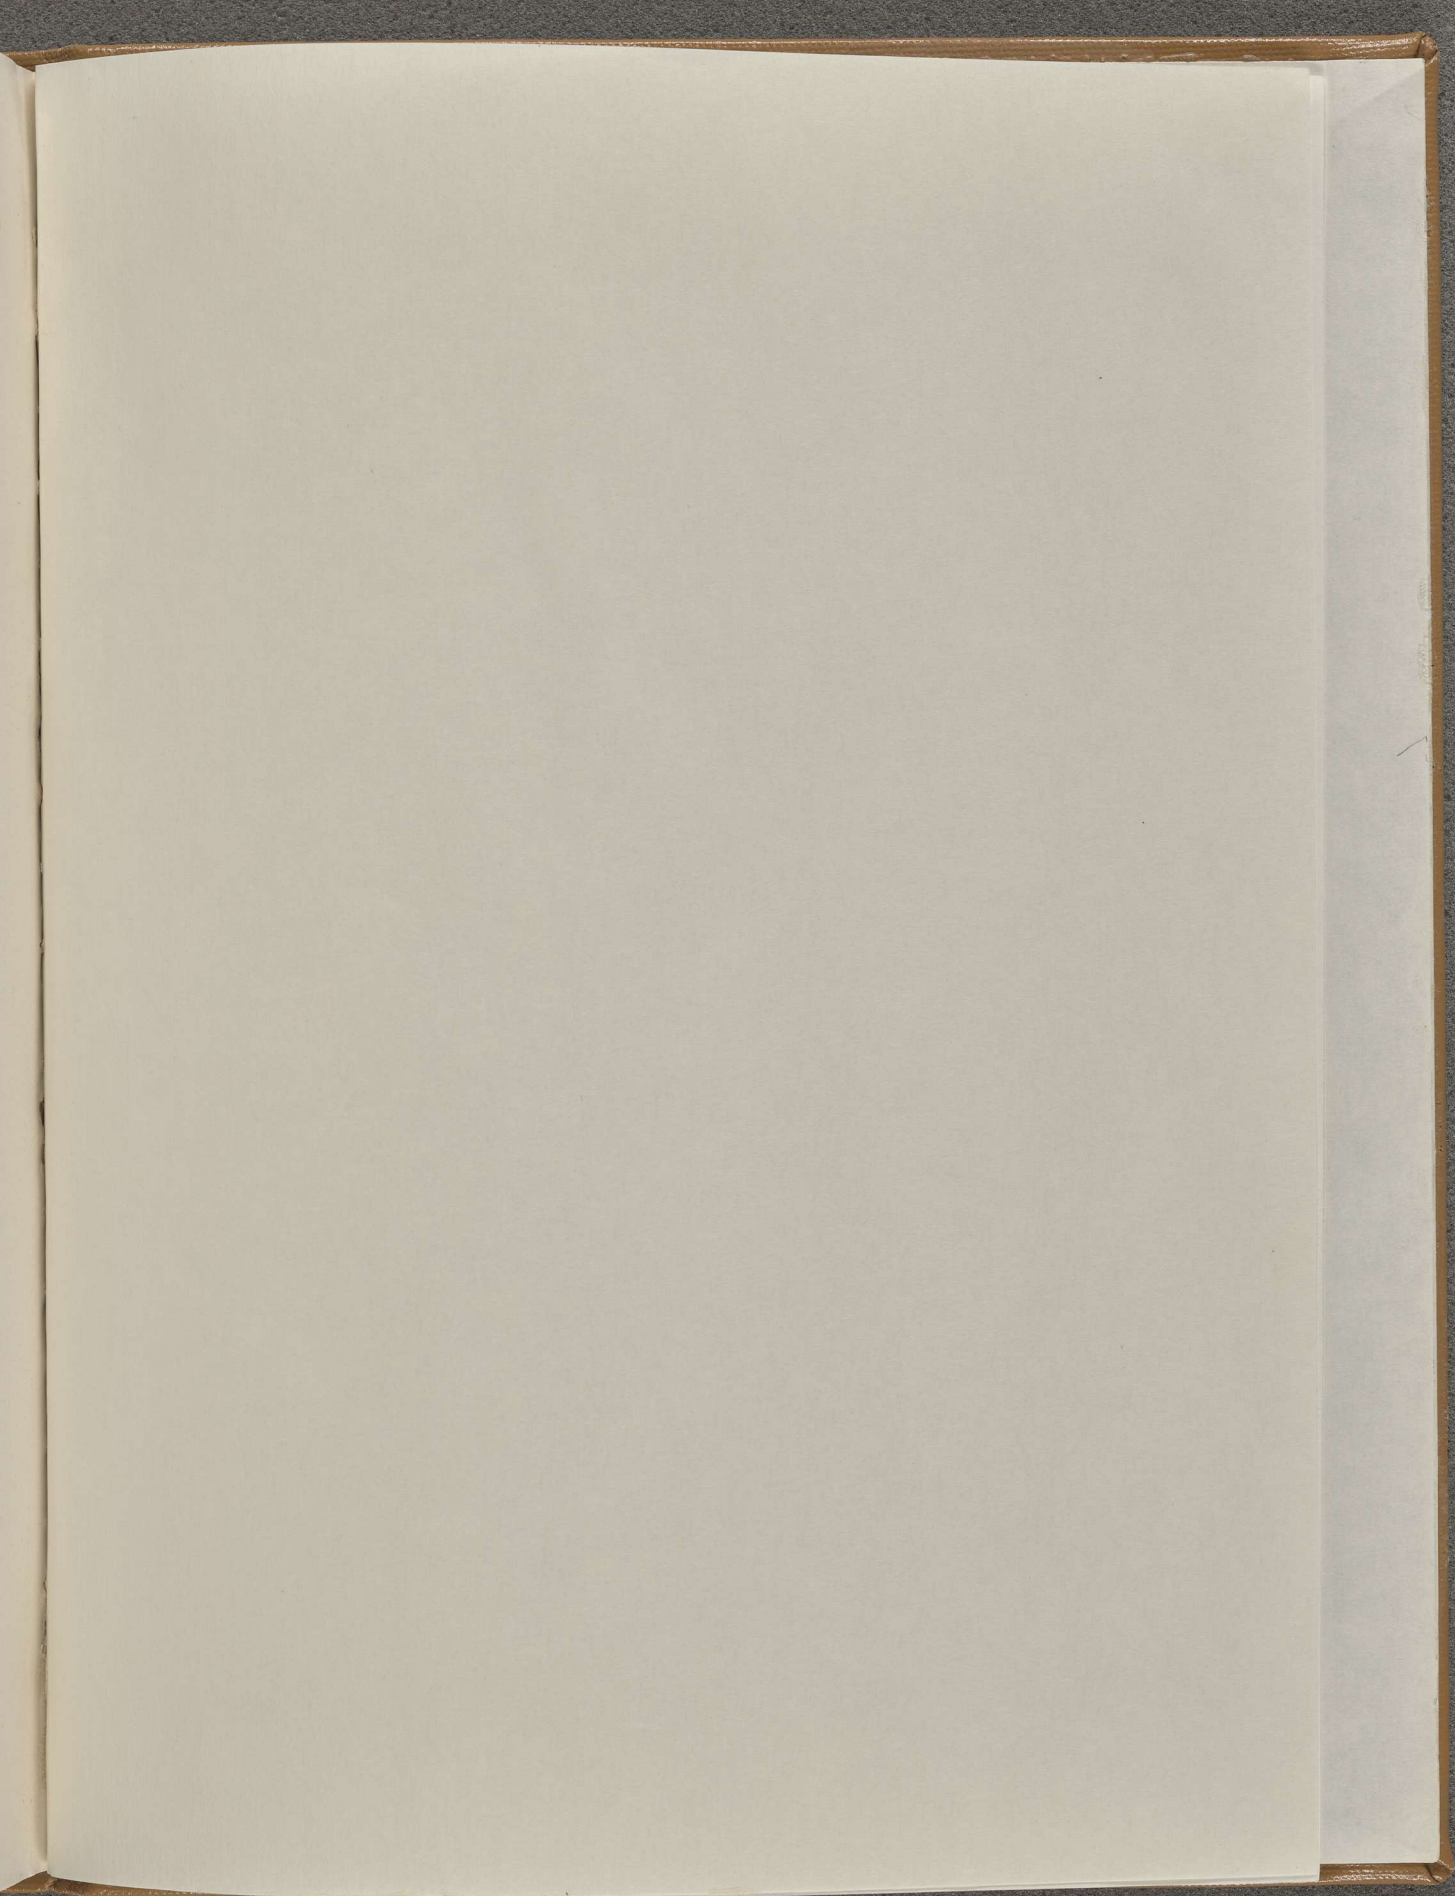

Private George Hoskins (on the right), of Warren, joined the Princess Pat regiment of Canada early in the war. He is believed to have been the first Warren man in action on the western front. He was at Vimy Ridge, Lens and other great battles which took place before the United States got its forces to France. He was wounded.

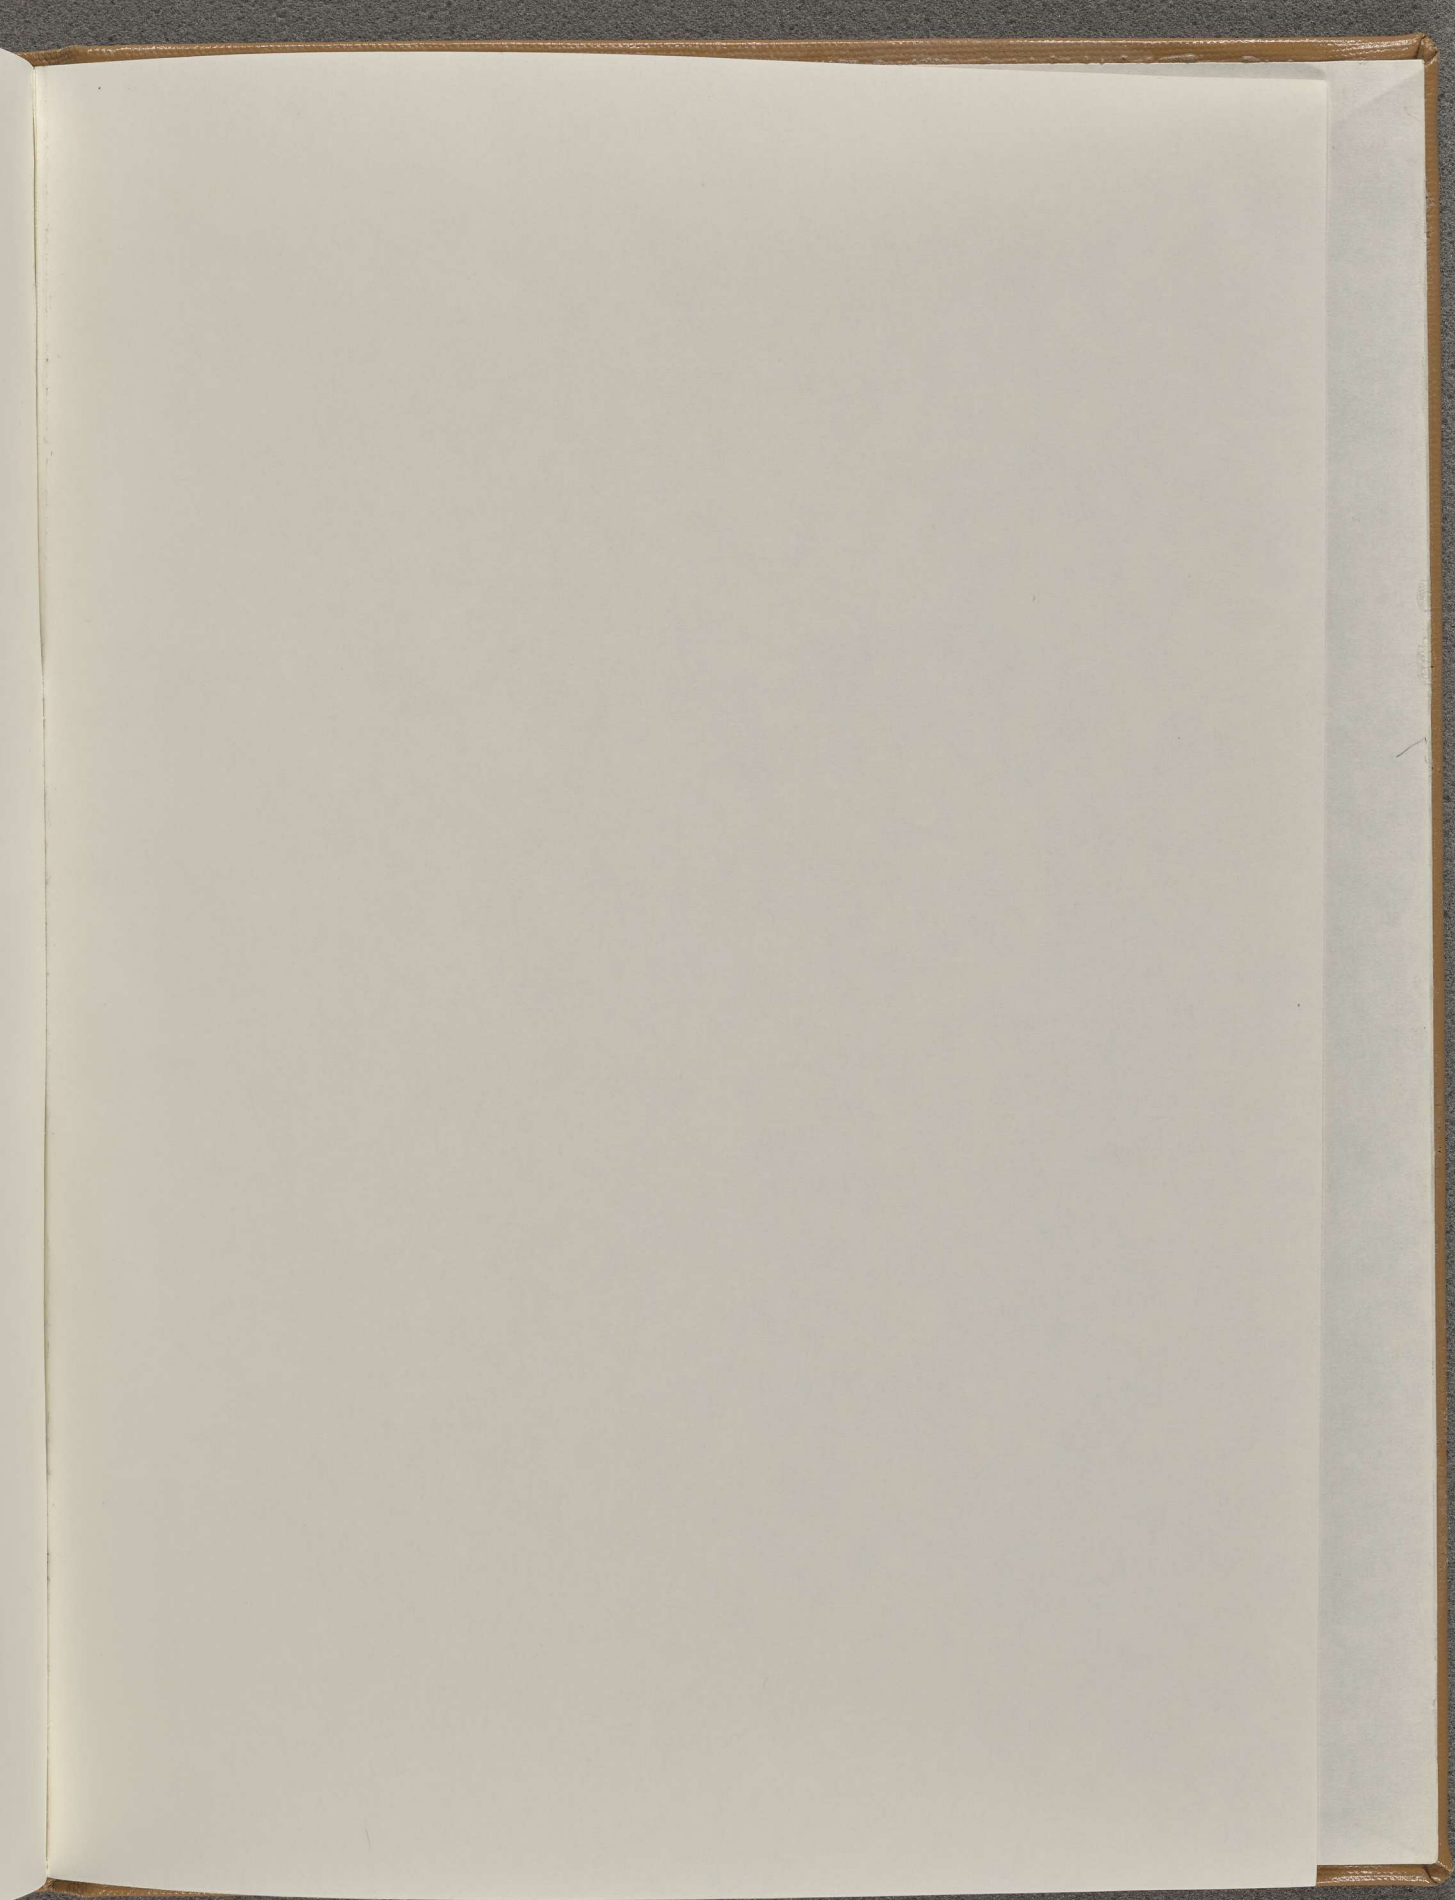

EDITOR'S NOTE: Acknowledgment is made, for some 450 pictures used in this book, to G. M. Borg, Bairstow Studio, Charles Hornstrom and Miss Grace Greene, and for their identification of the same. There are some pictures which should be in the book and are not. A very earnest effort was made through use of advertising in the newspapers, and by house-to-house canvass to get them all. Some of the pictures turned out better than others; this was due in each case to the quality of the print supplied. There are more than 1,400 faces of men in the service in the preceding pages and it was to the end that they might be presented pictorially, and preserved historically, that the book was published.
